COA says goodbye to long time personnel

By Samuel Gelinas
Correspondent

SOUTH HADLEY – COA employees Ann Andras and Lisa Napiorkowski anticipate the last days of their careers this week. To recognize their work, a small reception will take place with cake to commemorate their careers on Wednesday, May 15, from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. at the South Hadley Council on Aging (COA).

Napiorkowski has worked as Assistant Director of the senior center since 2008. She calls the day she was accepted for the position as a, “lucky day,” and that she sees now as the perfect time to go. “I have a lot of good memories of a lot of good things” she shared, listing her work as assistant director among those relivable memories.

Before coming to the COA in 2008, Napiorkowski worked in Town Hall right out of college. “I started at Town Hall as clerk in 1988 in the Planning Department under the first Town Planner they hired. I got to mold that position,” she reminisced about her first job.

After eleven years with this position, she received a position as administrative secretary for the selectboard in 1999. She would be there for nine years until her time at the Senior Center commenced in 2008.

Andras also has a long history with the center, working her first position there beginning in 1999 as activity coordinator, and would later be promoted to assistant director. From the years of 2008 through 2013 she took a hiatus to work as Director of the Granby Senior Center.

She would then return to

South Hadley to accept her dream position, the one she is now retiring from. That is, the job of Social Services Coordinator.

“That’s what I wanted all along...this was my niche, this was my passion you could call it,” she shared as she communicated her enthusiasm for the position.

Social work has been the field of her affection. At forty she returned to school. “I majored in social work in school...at the Elms. I did accounting and tax prep for my husband’s business for many years...It worked out good,” she stated, summarizing her journey to retirement day.

Lisa and Anne, after being asked about their retirement plans, began listing and interjecting their ambitions, as if they were assembling new lyrics for Julie Andrews’s classic song, “Favorite things”

“I’m gonna have an extra cup of coffee in the morning.” “Cocktails in the evening.” “Lunch with friends.” “Putting off chores.” “The pleasure of doing what you want to without squeezing it in,” they declared, already fantasizing the potential of the coming years of their lives.

Neither Napiorkowski nor Andras is afraid of retirement, but have plans, goals, and ambitions to use their time well.

Andras shared that she had never been the person to count down the days to retirement, but that after years of people telling her, ‘you’ll know when the time comes.’

She admits that for her, that time is now.

“You have to really want it,” she said in reference to retirement. “You gotta prepare the best you can for it. For most people it’s a huge adjustment being fixed income.”

“Don’t convince yourself you’re too old to do things... Stay busy; do the things you like; don’t do the things you don’t have to do–You don’t have to! There’s no one making you wake up at five in the morning, or saying, ‘it’s eight o’clock.’”

She continued by saying that even the chores sound more fun in the context of retiring, and warns against the use of TV as a tool to pass the time.

“The thought of some mundane chore seems nice. I’m not a television person either. A lot of people who retire, all they do is watch TV...Get out there. Do something. Get your fitness up. Spend time in nature. It’s the best medicine in the world, I feel.”

“You’re only bored if you allow yourself to go that way”

Napiorkowski looks forward to having the time to organize her house, with the intention to downsize sometime in the future. Preferably downsize by the beach, she says.

“I have a lot of organizing at my house that I haven’t been able to do, and I really want to focus on it.” She joked about the allure of a beachside estate: “That’s a dream. Ya never know.”

Both also look forward to the opportunity of giving more time and fuller attention to family and friends.

“Life is too short,” said Napiorkowski, as Andras gave her reflections on important things to consider before retiring. Among these things is timing while taking health into consideration as a valuable asset.

“How do you want to leave something? When your health is already failing? When you’ve already worked too long?” asked Andras rhetorically. Both expressed thanks that they are able to make this decision before their health is failing, and before they were actually able to enjoy this time of their lives.

“I’ve had many people say: You’re going to love retirement; others say you’re going to regret it. They say I’ll enjoy it for a month then look for something to do.” said Andras. In response to these she replies: “I can always find something to do.”

“I have never been bored in my life. I’ve got some goals in mind. I’ve got some volunteer things I want to do, and one of them is with the food pantry here in town,” she shared.

Some other activities she plans on getting her hands into, include, “some traveling. Get back into some fitness. Some walking and bike riding. You know, those kinds of fun things you put on the back burner when you only have the weekends.”

Both talked about the amazing character which has been displayed by colleagues in the COA, both past and present. Napiorkowski referred to Andras as a mentor of hers, and she praised the amazing work environment the center has been able to maintain.

Both praised the willingness and dedication of their coworkers to serve the senior community. To exemplify this point, Andras cited an event last week where the whole staff played a game of volleyball with members.

“It’s a staff that is willing to say let’s put our stuff down and go out there for an hour,” shared Andras.

Both also thanked the continued support of the Town of South Hadley, especially Lisa Wong and Chuck Romboletti, and said that the support of the Town makes it easier for them to perform their jobs.

Both made it clear that they are not disappearing, and assured members that if they are needed, both Napiorkowski and Andras will be available. “We’re around for [members] if they need us... they know they can reach out to us if they need us. We are accessible,” she stated.

"We firmly believe that the money a grant writer could generate would help alleviate some of the shortfalls in the budget due to the decreased funding from the state," Foley explained.

Morale at Mosier was addressed by Foley, and she appealed to the committee for teachers to be given better training and support in order to handle concerns within the school.

Superintendent's report McLaughlin took some time to address some of the things that were said in the SHEA update and during the public comments to answer any questions the individuals had.

Welcoming new members

Jack Witowski and Jackson Mato introduced themselves to the committee as new members, and talked about how excited they were to begin working together.

Curriculum and programming updates

McLaughlin gave a report on the program and curriculum updates, which included structure and formatting of report cards, new talks and curriculums to support social and emotional learning, and even more.

"I would also say that as relates to the SEL Curriculum that has been brought up, we have a social and emotional mental health committee led by Courtney Mackey," McLaughlin said.

District policies

Voyik led the board in discussing the various changes to policies, and how to vote on them.

Firehouse Museum open every fourth Sunday

School Committee appointment

The Selectboard and School Committee worked together to interview and hear from a candidate for joining the School Committee.

Dr. Jackson Matos, a former School Committee member on a social justice platform, came to the board with an application to join the School Committee once more.

"I love when the schools are producing something, whether sports or arts, and how the community comes to support that," Matos said.

"I know that representation matters, and as a person of color and member of the queer community, I wanted to bring that representation, and my expertise, to the school committee."

Both the Selectboard and School Committee voted to accept and approve of Matos' application, and welcomed them as a new member.

MESB Committee appointment

The Selectboard and School Committee then held a time to interview many different applicants for positions on the upcoming committee for the Mosier Elementary School Building.

The first applicant, Ryan Moore, came forward with construction and architecture experience, and grew up in South Hadley and has 3 and 7-year-old boys in the school district, and shared his desire to see his children in the new school.

"We love the community," Rudi Hall, the next applicant said. "Education is extremely important to us, and the infrastructure is also important to use. We really want to be a part of that change."

Art Procter, who has a child in the Mosier school expressed his desire to join the committee in order to help fix and change the state of the gym, making it so that those who attend their children's sporting events have room to sit.

Brian Kennedy, a licensed mechanical engineer, has two kids in the school system. "I recognize a need for a change, and I see these committees do as well."

Diane Mulvaney came forward with an interest in joining the committee and shared her work in the town as chair on the Planning Board, and shared her desire to see the spaces used to the fullest.

Teresa Winter, a parent, came forward with a desire to ensure that spaces and technology are included, so that students and teachers can thrive to the fullest. She also expressed a desire for safety for the students and teachers.

Erica Faginski, another parent, came forward to share her desire to join the committee.

Elizabeth Wood, the current principal at South Hadley High School for the past five years said, "I think this is a really great opportunity to align the schools together."

Brook Beaulieu, who works in the portable section of Mosier School, saying, "Honestly, I would say function over fashion."

The boards moved to then consider and vote for all those who applied, and they filled two staff members, two parent members, and three candidates for the construction and architecture experience members.

The boards moved to approve of and appoint both Brook Beaulieu and Elizabeth Wood for the staff positions, and for parent positions, appointed Teresa Winter and Brian Kennedy.

The boards then moved and appointed Diane Mulvaney, Ryan Moore, and Rudi Hall for seats as construction and architecture experience seats.

These positions begin at the end of April 30, 2024, and will end at the completion of the project.

Pointers for happy plants

I read somewhere that the new frost free date for our area is May 8.

In discussing this finding with a fellow gardener, she said, "I still wait until Memorial Day. It just seems way too early to put peppers or tomatoes into the garden." I wait too.

It is more than just the frost free date, it's also about how sufficiently the soil has warmed up. With temps hovering in the mid 40's today, I can't imagine our tropical loving plants would be very happy dealing with that.

Besides choosing an appropriate planting date, there are a few other pointers at this stage of the game will help to get your garden off to a good start.

Whether you purchase plants at a local garden center or grow your own on windowsills or under lights, it is important that they be hardened off before being set into the ground.

Some nurseries take care of this for you by removing them from the greenhouse and placing them on benches outdoors where they get accustomed to wind, rain, fluctuating temperatures, and hot sun. If the plants you purchased came from inside the greenhouse hardening them off at home is relatively easy.

Introduce seedlings to the outdoors gradually, by placing them in a protected location, safe from whipping winds and scalding sun, for a small amount of time each day. Water frequently but withhold any fertilizer.

Over the course of a week to 10 days the amount of time spent outdoors should increase until plants have spent a full day outside. Once they have, they can be considered "tough enough" to be planted in the ground.

Transplanting is best done on a cloudy, drizzly day. Early evening is another option should nice days persist.

Under these circumstances roots will be allowed some recovery time before having sustain the plant in the sun and wind. Seedlings should be watered well prior to transplanting.

On occasion I have even kept a bucket of water with me in the garden in which I submerge six packs of plants for a few seconds to moisten them thoroughly before planting in dry soil.

The planting hole should be dug slightly larger than the container in which the plant was growing. Depending on the type of plant, compost and fertilizers can be added to the hole and mixed with the surrounding soil to insure adequate fertility.

Plant the seedlings at the same depth they were growing in their containers, no deeper. One exception to this rule is tomatoes, whose stems sprout roots!

For less leggy tomatoes, plant them deeply, even in trenches with only a few sets of leaves above ground.

Examine the root ball of seedlings carefully. If the roots are tightly woven together, they may need to be "butterflied," or gently pulled apart to encourage future rooting in new soil.

After planting, firm soil around roots, and water well. If water drains away from the seedling make a basin of soil a few inches from the plant's stem to keep water where it is needed.

If sunny days and warm temperatures are expected soon after transplanting it is a good idea to shade plants for a few days with overturned pots, tree branches, or other devices. Again, less transplant shock means less time spent on recovery, and more time spent on making fruits and flowers!

Continue to water well and deeply for the first week or two. Deep watering will encourage deep rooting, and deep roots will best withstand summer droughts.

Taking good care of your plants in the early stages will certainly insure a summer of productivity.

SOCIAL SECURITY Matters

By Russell Gloor

Widower's retirement stymied by Social Security's WEP and GPO rules

Dear Rusty:

My wife passed away four years ago. I want to retire so called SSA and was told I can collect my own SS at 62, reduced by Windfall Elimination Provision.

My wife's SS was greater than mine, but they said I do not qualify for hers at age 60 because of the Government Pension Offset. This seems odd that I get zero for her, however I can collect mine at the two thirds reduction at 62. Is this true? This zero dollar amount places my retirement on hold for now. I was counting on her SS.

Signed: Discouraged Widower

Dear Discouraged:

The Windfall Elimination Provision and the Government Pension Offset are two of the most confusing and unpopular of Social Security's myriad rules. From the way you describe your conversation with the Social Security Administration, it doesn't appear to have concluded with you fully understanding how these provisions work, so allow me to elaborate.

WEP and GPO affect anyone who has a retirement pension from a federal, state or local government agency which did not participate in Social Security, meaning neither the employee nor the employer paid into Social Security based on the employee's earnings. Obviously, you have such a pension, which means that WEP will reduce any Social Security retirement benefit you have earned from other employment where SS payroll taxes were withheld and the GPO will affect any survivor benefit you are entitled to.

WEP affects only the SS retirement benefit you earned elsewhere; WEP does not affect any surviving spouse benefit you might be entitled to from your wife. Rather, it is the GPO, which affects your survivor benefit, again because of your state retirement, called a "non-covered pension" - one earned without contributing to Social Security.

The GPO will reduce any surviving spouse benefit you might be entitled to by 2/3rds of the amount of your "non-covered" state pension. Depending on the size of your state pension, that reduction may entirely eliminate your surviving spouse benefit from your wife.

Under normal SS rules, a surviving spouse does not become eligible for survivor benefits until they reach age 60 (age 50 if disabled).

Normally, a surviving spouse benefit claimed at age 60 is reduced by 28.5% and it is the GPO that will affect your survivor benefit whenever you claim it. However, even without GPO, your age 60 survivor benefit amount would be only 71.5% of the amount your wife was receiving or entitled to receive at her death.

If you are already collecting your non-covered state pension when you claim your SS survivor benefit from your wife, then that reduced age 60 survivor benefit would be offset by 2/3rds of the amount of your state pension. And that, according to what Social Security told you, is what eliminated your age 60 eligibility for a surviving spouse benefit from your wife.

If you don't claim it at 60 your survivor benefit will continue to grow until you reach your Full Retirement Age of 67, but if 2/3rds of your state pension is more than 100% of your SS survivor benefit, you still won't get any surviving spouse benefit from your wife's record.

A further consequence of your non-covered state pension is that the SS retirement benefit you earned elsewhere will be reduced by WEP. WEP will reduce, but cannot eliminate, your Social Security retirement benefit.

The WEP formula is complex but, generally, your WEP-based Social Security retirement benefit will likely be roughly half of what you would get if you did not have a state "non-covered pension." You could claim your WEP-reduced SS retirement benefit as early as age 62 or, if financially feasible, delay longer to get a somewhat higher, but still reduced amount.

Just For Your Information, your state employer had an obligation to fully inform you of the consequences of not contributing to Social Security while earning your state pension. It appears as though they may not have fulfilled that obligation.

Softball gets win in extra innings

SOUTH HADLEY – Last Tuesday afternoon, Isabella Schaefer not only pitched nine shut-out innings, but she also got the game-winning hit as South Hadley defeated Easthampton 1-0 in nine innings. Her hit scored her battery mate, Ara Powers in the bottom of the ninth. The Tigers are now 11-3 on the season.

Rams win three straight

GRANBY – The road was kind of Granby softball last week as the Rams took three straight, beating Palmer, Southwick, and Ware in consecutive games, all away from Granby High School. The Rams scored a combined 76 runs in this three games, a 21-7 win over Palmer, a 30-10 triumph over Southwick, and a 25-13 win over Ware. The Rams are 7-5 on the season and face Hopkins Academy on May 9 at 4 p.m.

Late runs lift Tigers to win

By Tim Peterson
Sports Correspondent

SOUTH HADLEY—The South Hadley, Southwick, and Ware baseball teams finished the 2023 regular season in a three-way tie for first place in the Suburban Central league standings.

Just when it looked like South Hadley would fall two games behind first place Ware in this year's league standings, the Tigers managed to keep their league title hopes alive. They scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning leading to an exciting 6-5 come-from-behind victory over the Monson Mustangs at Thomas B. Landers Baseball Diamond, last Tuesday afternoon.

"We're coming off a very big win against Southwick the other night and we were a little bit flat in today's game," said longtime South Hadley head coach Matt Foley. "I'm very proud of the way the kids kept plugging away against an up-and-coming Monson team. We only beat them, 1-0, the first time that we faced them."

South Hadley (8-2, 6-1) won their eighth consecutive game since a 5-2 home loss to Wahconah Regional and a 1-0 loss at Ware in the first two games of the regular season.

"This is a big league win because Ware hasn't lost a league game yet," Foley added. "We're really looking forward to playing them again in a couple of weeks."

The Tigers are scheduled to host the Ware Indians on May 15.

The Mustangs, who were hoping to spoil the Tigers league title dreams, had a 4-6 overall record and a 2-3 league mark following the one run road loss.

Despite losing another close game to South Hadley, Monson varsity coach Curtis Orlik was pleased with his team's overall performance in the road game.

"It stinks losing another close game to South Hadley, but I thought we played very well today," he said. "This was one of the better games that we've played so far this season. We hit the ball well against a very good pitching staff. If we would've been able to hang on, this would've been a huge win for us."

Monson did close out last week's action with a pair of victories against Granby (8-7) and SCIS (10-0), which put them to the .500 mark for the first time this spring.

The Mustangs were trailing the Tigers, 3-2, entering the top of the sixth inning.

With one-out in the frame, sophomore shortstop Jake Beaupre and sophomore center-fielder Ben Pignone drew back-to-back walks against South Hadley senior relief pitcher Burke Belsky, who's a lefty.

Then sophomore catcher

Justin Moskal pitches for the Tigers.

T-Birds front office members wins award

SPRINGFIELD - The Springfield Thunderbirds earned their second-ever Howdy Award recognition on Monday night during the 27th annual event inside the MassMutual Center. T-Birds Manager of Brand Development and Merchandise, Drew Supenor, earned the Howdy in the "Attractions" category, one of 10 local hospitality workers spotlighted on Monday.

The Greater Springfield Convention and Visitors Bureau presents the Howdy Awards annually to recognize the outstanding service hospitality industry employees provide. Supenor's award victory marks the second time the Thunderbirds organization has taken home a Howdy. Team mascot "Boomer" captured the same honor in 2018.

"We want to thank the GSCVB for recognizing Drew and Lauren Blanchard from our staff as finalists for their category," said Thunderbirds President Nathan Costa. "As someone who has been with our franchise since our first day in 2016, Drew has embodied what it means to be a service champion to his customers. On top of that award-winning trait, he has been instrumental in creating some of the best merchandise lines of any team in the American Hockey League, and we could not be prouder to have him represent our organization for this much-deserved honor."

During the T-Birds' immensely successful 2023-24 season, the box office records also translated into the brand and merchandise space. Supenor's team was instrumental in generating a 10% increase in online and in-arena sales compared to the prior season. The store's full rebrand on specialty nights led to big crowds looking to stock up on T-Birds gear, including the single-game record for merchandise sales on the club's annual Ice-O-Topes Night this past February.

Since their inception in 2016, the Thunderbirds' merchandise sales have grown in each of the team's first seven seasons of play. Total merchandise sales for the Springfield AHL franchise have grown 6x from the final year of the Falcons organization in 2015-16 to today.

"Merchandise plays a vital role in representing your brand in the area and is not just a means of generating revenue," explained Costa. "When you visit downtown Springfield on game nights, you can see T-Birds gear everywhere. People of all ages wear it proudly, which speaks volumes about Drew and his team's ability to bring in products that people genuinely want to wear and show off."

Benjamin's Star Speedway mastery continues with Spring 100 checkers

EPPING, N.H. - Travis Benjamin won two of last year's Granite State Pro Stock Series stops at Star Speedway. With only one visit to the popular bullring on the schedule in 2024, the reigning GSPSS champion made it count.

The Belfast, Maine, veteran withstood challenges from Ryan Green and Casey Call to win Saturday night's Spring 100, opening his title defense the same way he started off last year's title chase.

"I've got a wicked good car here," Benjamin told series announcer Marco Thomas in Star's winner's circle. "I can't thank my crew enough."

Benjamin and Green flexed their muscle early, winning their respective heats to lead the field to the first green flag of the new season. Green, sporting new colors and with former GSPSS champion Joey Doiron in his pit stall, worked the outside line to take the early lead, with Benjamin haunting in second.

In a mad scramble for the lead after a lap-34 restart, Benjamin got the better of Call and Green, retaking the top spot as the field slowed for a competitor's tire trouble. Call settled into second on a long green-flag run, with Green threatening for second.

Jamie Wright's spin on lap 82 erased Benjamin's advantage, with Green and Call poised to make it exciting in the final laps. But Benjamin cleared himself of Green, driving away from the pack to post his fourth career GSPSS win and his third Star win in the last four series races held at "The Place to Race."

Call, last July's GSPSS winner at Star, settled for second, with Green matching his best career GSPSS finish in third. Dan Winter was fourth in his first series start since 2017, while Speedway 95 winner and Wiscasset Speedway veteran Josh St. Clair managed a fifth-place run despite spinning twice early.

Title hopeful Evan Beaulieu was 11th at the finish, leaving the Durham, Maine, driver at a deficit, as Benjamin sits atop the points standings with eight races to go.

The next race on the GSPSS calendar is at Claremont Motorsports Park, as the series returns to its long-time home venue after a year's absence. On Sunday, May 26, Key Auto Group presents the GSPSS 100 with a $5,000 share going to the race winner of the Memorial Day showdown.

Shane Szado grounded a single down the left field line scoring Beaupre with the game tying run. Szado advanced to second base on the throw to the plate. After the next batter struck out, sophomore leftfielder Austin Meacham poked a two-run single into center giving the visiting team the lead for the first time at 5-3.

The Mustangs didn't hold onto the lead for very long, as the Tigers scored three runs against senior righthander Sebastian Nava, who went the distance for Monson, in the bottom of the sixth.

The Tigers rally began with a single to left by senior DH John Viola, who advanced to second on an error before stealing third. Viola scored when senior first baseman Jack Maziarz hit a sacrifice fly to left field. Then Belsky and sophomore shortstop Griffin Soderbaum drew back-to-back walks. Nava retired the next batter on a pop-up, which brought sophomore leftfielder Logan Carpenter to the plate. Carpenter, who's the Tigers leadoff hitter, became the hero of the game for the home team by belting a two-run double to center field.

"We were trailing by a couple of runs going into that inning and I really needed to get a base hit in that at-bat," Carpenter said. "After I hit the ball, I knew the two baserunners were going to score. This is the first time I've had a game winning hit in a varsity game."

The second hitter in the Tigers line-up is Logan's twin brother, Gavin, who started the game in rightfield.

While Logan is a second-year varsity player, Gavin is a first-year varsity player. The twins have also been teammates on the same hockey team.

"It's cool playing on the same baseball team with my twin brother," Logan said. "We also play on a hockey team together."

Viola, who's one of the Tigers aces, along with classmate Matt Drobiak took over on the mound at the start of the seventh inning. Viola retired the first Mustangs batter on a pop-up which he caught before striking out the next two batters ending the ballgame.

"Johnny and Matt are both very good pitchers," Foley said. "We needed Johnny pitch in today's game because he hadn't pitched since last week. He hasn't been a closer very often, but he did very well in that role today."

The Tigers, who had only four base hits, took a 1-0 lead in the second when Maziarz tripled to right field before scoring on a throwing error.

Viola had an RBI single in the following inning.

Monson, who also only had four hits, tied the score against sophomore righty Justin Moskal, who was the Tigers stater, in the top of the fourth.

The Mustangs first run scored on an RBI single by Ben Pignone and a sacrifice fly by senior Colin Beaupre brought home the tying run.

South Hadley retook the lead in the fifth, which led to the very exciting sixth inning.

Northern Parula, a common spring migratory bird in our area. (no photo credit needed, part of creative commons)

Spring migration bird walk at the River to Range Trail

Step outside. The forests and fields are full of birds, some are here to nest and others just stopping by during their migrations further north. South Hadley has many great conservation areas to witness the wonder of spring migration.

Please join the South Hadley Conservation Commission, which is hosting a spring migration bird walk at the River to Range Trail lead by Bill DeLuca, a Conservation Commission member and Senior Migration Ecologist with the National Audubon Society. The walk will begin in the trailhead parking lot off Ferry Street on Saturday, May 18 at 9 a.m. Come dressed for the weather as we take about an hour or two to walk the relatively flat and smooth 1-mile-long loop trail. We will have free coffee and donuts in the parking lot prior to our walk. No prior birding experience is needed, and we will have some binoculars to share.

On May 16 at 7 p.m., we will also host a zoom info session to discuss what you might expect on your walk and talk a bit about the general ecology of the location. Please register to receive the Zoom link to log into the meeting: <https://bit.ly/SpringBirdTalk>.

Historical Association holds opening day

BELCHERTOWN – The Belchertown Historical Association is holding its Opening Day activities at the Stone House Museum on Saturday, May 11.

There will be free tours of the museum, the famous “Old Bag” sale, a plant sale featuring locally grown perennials and some local crafters.

The association is asking for help from the community to make this fundraiser successful. Many have already contributed old bags for the sale.

Every year, the plant sale receives many donations of perennials dug from gardens in the community and generously donated to the plant sale. Please check your gardens for new plants that can be potted now and have time to recover and look their best in time for the sale.

They are looking for flowering plants, shade plants, vegetable plants, trees, shrubs, bulbs, fruit bearing plants and house plants. Plants can be brought to the Stone House during the week before the sale and left near the schoolhouse.

Please email sallyshattuck54@gmail.com if you have any questions.
